Election/Restrictions

1. Claims 50-64 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 1/19/06.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1-11, 13, 14, 16-24, 26-35, 37-49, 65, and 67 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Joha (1888172).

Joha shows a shoe comprising a knitted upper with seams and a sole. In reference to the specific method by which the upper is knitted, such phrases have been treated as product by process limitations i.e. a comparison of the recited process with the prior art processes does NOT serve to resolve the issue concerning patentability of the product. In re Fessman, 489 F2d 742, 180 U.S.P.Q. 324 (CCPA 1974). Whether a product is patentable depends on whether it is known in the art or it is obvious, and is not governed by whether the process by which it is made is patentable. In re Klug, 333 F2d 905, 142 U.S.P.Q. 161 (CCPA 1964). In an ex parte case, product-by-process claims are not construed as being limited to the product formed by the specific process recited. In re Hirao et al., 535 F2d 67, 190 U.S.P.Q. 15, see footnote 3 (CCPA 1976). It is noted that the numerous types of knitting are well known in the art and are noted in some of the cited references.

4. Claims 1, 2, 7-11, 13-24, 26, 27, 41-43, 47-49, and 65-67 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Throneburg (6308438).

Throneburg shows a shoe comprising a knitted upper with seams and a sole. In reference to the specific method by which the upper is knitted, such phrases have been treated as product by process limitations i.e. a comparison of the recited process with the prior art processes does NOT serve to resolve the issue concerning patentability of the product. In re Fessman, 489 F2d 742, 180 U.S.P.Q. 324 (CCPA 1974). In re Hirao et al., 535 F2d 67, 190 U.S.P.Q. 15, see footnote 3 (CCPA 1976). It is noted that the numerous types of knitting are well known in the art and are noted in some of the cited references.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 12, 25, and 36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Joha (1888172) in view of Fay, Sr. (5746013).

Joha shows a shoe substantially as claimed except for making the upper with three layers. Fay, Sr. teaches forming a knitted upper with an inner knitted layer (17), an intermediate layer (19) and an outer knitted layer (16) and an additional leather layer (11). It would have been obvious to make the upper from a plurality of layers, some knitted as taught by Fay, Sr. in the shoe of Joha to improve durability and comfort.

7. Claims 12 and 25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Throneburg (6308438) in view of Fay, Sr. (5746013).

Throneburg shows a shoe substantially as claimed except for making the upper with three layers.
